Our Story

It all started with a birthday being celebrated at an orphanage in Nalasopara on June 10th 2014. What followed gave rise to one of 'India's Coolest Youth Organizations' working for a social change. The rest as they say, is History.

Few teenagers would today decide to throw their 17th birthday party at an orphanage. If they do, it would be for all the wrong reasons. But what sets Himanshu Goenka -the Founder of Muskurahat apart from the average teen, is the nobility of his unique vision. It was after having celebrated his birthday at the Home and as the newly turned 17 year old saw a sight there, that the seeds of this tree named Muskurahat were first sown.

What happened after that birthday celebration? What happened was that he realised that whom he had thought of as only orphans also included juveniles. That truth shook him deeply, a profound realization hitting him: He would have to do something about it; and do it Now.

Most of his friends continued lending support for organizing events at various local Homes for a short while; but when the time came for commitment, most of them ended up choosing Engineering and Medical careers. Himanshu, the one who had really felt the 'passion to give back', was the only one left holding onto it. A lonesome restlessness followed; but never could that deter his decision of a lifetime that would soon be made. For now, the dilemma of a choice between his passion which was managing events and his hobby for bringing change, had found a perfect blend in the idea of a Foundation that worked for the underprivileged. To Himanshu, it was essential that this be a youth driven endeavour mainly because he wished to dispel the myths associated with social work that usually derogate the ability of the not-so- rich youth to mobilize for change.

The one unmissable fact to be mentioned here is the incredible support of the people who stood by Himanshu. He may have faltered without their unbending faith in him. This faith helped in establishing an independent entity by the name 'Muskurahat Foundation'.

Joyride was Muskurahat's first event where his dream was first transformed into reality. As the name suggests, the idea was to take street children on luxurious car and bike rides along the Queen's Necklace at Marine Drive. The difficulties faced and the impact created today, form a fond first memory. About some of the important causes that Muskurahat has supported from its foundation are menstrual hygiene, cancer care as well as awareness about the problems of senior citizens.

KEYtaab is Muskurahat's first flagship project which has today grown to six centers including two in New Delhi launched this year. July 2017 was when Muskurahat set up base in Andheri with its first office ever. Soon after this, Team Muskurahat crossed the 100 volunteers mark. After countless efforts of our volunteers, two AnganShiksha projects soon kicked off in the slums of Asalpha, India's second largest slum. Project Vastradaan was our unique cloth donation drive for the Rohingyas suffering across the borders. Masika Mahotsav and Being Women are some of our women-oriented projects whereas India's Future Tycoons was our successful collaboration with ENpower for promoting youth entrepreneurs. This year too, we saw massive project expansion with Blind Book Dates and Being Women 2.0 being the highlights.

Having come a long way, we have not only grown financially but also experientially. The existence of a full-time Core Team of 10 full time members shows how well and how much the garden has grown. Importantly, the concept of crowdfunding has enabled us to reach out to potential donors who wish to help us spread more smiles and for which we are grateful.

As the pages that follow will show, the Shades of Muskurahat are too many to count; what is needed now more than ever as we enter our fifth year and expand nationally with growing responsibility and expectation, is to ascertain that we never lose sight of our main motive because- "A smile never took anything from anybody, it only ever filled the world with more happiness than can be contained within its borders."

Happy Reading!
-Team Muskurahat

Our vision

Our sole vision is to wipe away the suffering of inequality and social discrimination by replacing it with a smile.

We aim for simple happiness created by the simplest of pleasures - giving to those who don't have, and in return taking from them what they do have: lots of dil ki dua.

Our mission

To build a world which affords an equality of opportunity to all citizens indifferent of class, caste, sexuality and status. Here, education and empowerment must become the twin poles of self development and access to resources must not be determined by one's personal identity.

We strive for a world founded on the principle of secular humanism where personal space is equally respected. By smashing stereotypes and tearing down taboos, we want a world devoid of any discrimination.

Our main mission thus is POSITIVE CHANGE.

Our core values

Leadership

To instil the drive for change and progress that produces a holistic individual.

Integrity

Firm principles and a strong personality are what help us create impact.

Permanence

Our aim is to strive for sustainable plans of long term development.

Collaboration

Outreach and partnerships are prime to us, especially involving the youth.

Accessibility

Disapproving of hierarchies, we promote an open interactive environment.

Uniqueness of Approach

Tackling common social ills in our hatke way is a priority for us.

Encouraging Subjectivity

Accepting differences of feeling and thinking helps us make more friends.

What we do

"A child is a reservoir of unexplored lands, map him right and the world will grow."

This is what we at Muskurahat do with every child who has trusted his hand into ours. Unlike other factors that influence his childhood focusing solely upon quantitative variables, we wish to inculcate in them a sense of and appreciation for the qualitative values of life. By building a bridge of human interaction early on in their lives, we instil in them a standardised curriculum for appropriate social behaviours and interpersonal skills.

One of the bricks used in the construction of this bridge is our Special Model of Social Difference (SMSD). All our projects are designed according to the coordinates of its structure. We believe that being 'underprivileged' cannot be the only crucial factor affecting a child's upbringing. As we see it, a child's life is shaped by the strength of his choices and the quality of his character.

These basic values evolve out of two vital factors: surrounding and upbringing. It will be hard to find an undeveloped individual with either of these areas intact.

There is something essential amiss in their personal background; hence they serve an immense scope for improvement in both the areas.

Filling the gaps is what we aim to do through our two Flagship Projects: AnganShiksha and KEYtaab as well by our year-round events.

For AnganShiksha, our main motive is to create a positive atmosphere of learning lacking in the homes of slum-children. AnganShiksha is our slum development project operating in Asalpha and Bamawada. As for KEYtaab, which functions across four Shelter Homes in Mumbai and two in New Delhi, the purpose is to ensure a consistent involvement in the upbringing cycle of orphans and abandoned children.

All of Muskurahat's events also strive to promote awareness of the various problems plaguing the marginalized of our society. Be it our women-centric projects or those involving senior citizens; Project Vastradaan for the Rohingyas or Blind Book Dates for charity, celebrating Women's Day with pop art graffiti and the street plays- all these social events impart strong anti discriminative messages against gender and cultural stereotypes.

We see the world from behind our Smile Army masks. Every human being is bundle of smiles we help to blossom at Muskurahat.

We at Muskurahat, are constantly trying to reduce that number.

World of Muskurahat

Five years ago, Muskurahat was planted by a gardener who wasn't sure of the tree-like size it would grow to. As you will see ahead, the roots of our Vision have grown into the branches of our Mission. It is out of the leaves of the giant tree that our kid's smiles fly into the sky like a flight of birds free of their fetters.

AnganShiksha

Educating their angans, building our nation.

When a prominent social activist was asked about the most powerful external influence imaginable on the process of community development, he responded with only one word: environment. After this, the importance of the role played by one's surroundings in shaping one's life can hardly be overestimated. This is insight that has guided our AnganShiksha project from its founding.

By literally entering the angans of slum dwellers in Asalpha and Bamanwada every Sunday our main aim is promote community development living in the vulnerable slums of Mumbai. By improving the atmosphere of their daily life, we wish to create an impact in their overall living.

We go about pursuing this goal through a step by step process which began with the children. Children are the strongest link of any community, unprejudiced in their thinking, unhardened by harsh realities and unlimited in their dreams- they are the first step towards the peak that promises progress.

By going and conducting weekly sessions amongst them, our goal is to familiarize our presence and hence, put them at ease of giving their kids up to us. To do so has only become possible after the immense efforts of our earliest volunteers which were directed at providing the best for the kids and which finally convinced their families to send more of them, and send them willingly.

The idea behind this project is to create a pro learning, anti-abusive environment of understanding an comradeship which would usually be hard to find in any slum, and so to bring to them them the world as it exists outside their own walls.

By indulging in activities that promote interaction along with learning that isn't necessarily academic but value based, we are preparing them to build homes brighter and bigger than their current ones.

Baudh Vihar

Reached after a treacherous climb through narrow passes and steep steps, Baudh Vihar is a happy and open space. Gathering every Sunday morning, here are around 50 boys and girls who come from homes spread across Asalpha. Amid math sums and poetry reading, word games and fun quizzes -these children are safe and protected from the harsh life outside this temple of learning.

Police Chowki

Situated atop the secluded hill of Asalpha, this is where AnganShiksha's second project takes place every Sunday. Here, the kids with their bhaiya and didi volunteers are taken on long journeys through the books and the games Muskurahat brings to them every week.

Bamanwada

Bamanwada is our latest venture at Muskurahat's AnganShiksha project. Situated amidst the slums on Andheri's wild streets, these are a tougher lot to handle than those at Asalpha. Passing through open gutters and broken roofs, seeing fathers smoking hookahs while their mothers suffer in silence, nearly 40 kids from ages 4-14 years gather behind a temple where the sessions take place in secular peace, just like in Baudh Vihar.

300 children from
200 families served.

We are today's keys, to the doors of tomorrow.

'The purpose of a book is not to educate but to inform.' In these words can be described the foundations upon which the practical philosophy of KEYtaab rests. Tasked with tackling the other aspect of our Special Model of Social Difference, KEYtaab focuses on active (youth) intervention in the upbringing cycle of children living in orphanages and shelter homes across Mumbai.

Collaboration with such Homes enables us to reach out and impact kids belonging to a huge range of age groups. Similar diversity can also be observed in their respective personal backgrounds.

Some have been rescued from horrible scenarios of parental neglect, whereas others have come straight from the streets. A few are victims of child labor and all kinds of abuses - physical, mental or even sexual.

Armed with the knowledge of their traumatic pasts, we at Muskurahat fully understand and deeply appreciate the will it takes to go on, despite everything. It is on prioritizing such urgent humane needs that KEYtaab focuses on.

By sidestepping the usual route of academic involvement and scholastic teaching, we are interested in developing interpersonal skills and shaping well-formed personalities that the kids in their current status lack. Basic abilities such as communication, English reading, general knowledge, self awareness of and about body issues- all these that we take for granted are dearly missed by these kids.

Through our Sunday Sessions as detailed further on, we wish to set these kids on such roads that will eventually lead them to good, if not great heights.

Snehasadan- Kondivita

Unique for being KEYtaab's founding project, this space is populated by an all-boys assembly excelling at storytelling and speech-making! A good number of boys speak excellent English as per the standards applicable to them who have not had a normal childhood where English-speaking was a priority. Every Sunday, all our volunteers try hard to further improve their skills.

Snehasadan- Vinalaya

Surrounded by sprawling grounds and a huge hilly terrain any other city boy would be envious of, this Home is a special one having a really large number of boys- all falling wildly between the age range of 11-20. Bristling with an infectious will to learn and play and make memories and celebrate special days, this set of our boys are easily amongst the most excitable we know.

KEYtaab Mumbai

Shelter Don Bosco

Don Bosco is famous for being infamous as one of the toughest KEYtaab projects to manage. With the majority of its boys belonging to the streets of Wadala without any formal education, the volunteers at Shelter Don Bosco have made Muskurahat proud of their accomplishment. Another special feature here is that one will find only teens and adult boys in its audience

Snehasadan- Mahakali Caves

Nestled in the greenery of a huge garden, this is KEYtaab's special project catering to an only- girls Shelter Home. Comprising nearly 20 girls from the ages 6-19 years, the students here are a heady mix of primary to collegians. Bustling with an energy unique to girls, this home has some very smart throw-ball players in the making!

KEYtaab Mumbai

KEYtaab Delhi

Muskurahat, because it doesn't set out to target specific cities that may help increase its visibility or pursuing any other PR agenda, the opening of a KEYtaab project in New Delhi was pure coincidence. Individual initiative and volunteer interest has made our project expansion possible. We are more than fortunate to get those who have recently joined us from New Delhi as Muskurahat Volunteers and look forward to mutual cooperation across the cities. Our shared vision remains the holistic development of the kids for whom we have taken responsibility.

Bal Vihar

One of our two KEYtaab Homes in the Dwarka district of Delhi, this Home consists of nearly 20 girls from the age range of 10-15 years who couldn't be happier about having our Volunteers meet them every Sunday evening. The girls there have the desire to learn that challenge all odds and make us feel very hopeful and proud of our efforts in the Capital.

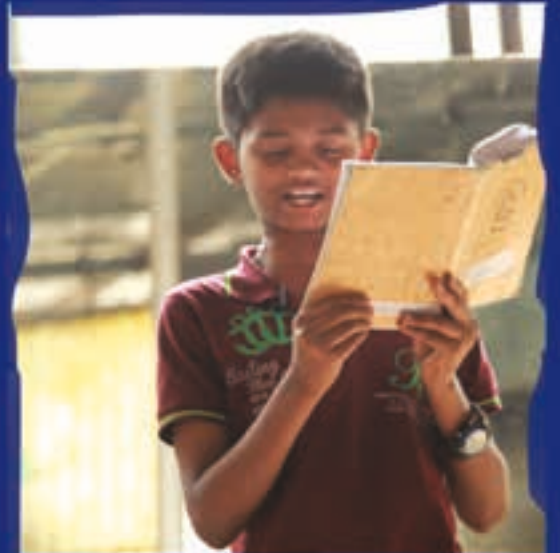

Shelter Don Bosco

This is our Chapter 2 of Muskurahat Delhi. With nearly the same stats as Bal Vihar except of course here even boys are taught by us. Reaching out to those at Don Bosco is most satisfying. This is so because it was the lack of any Organization working for orphans and juveniles in this area of the Capital that led us to adopt this Home. To balance the excess in Mumbai, we turn towards Delhi and no place could have been better than these two.

KEYtaab Bangalore

Located in the Bengaluru's district of Kodigehalli, Muskurahat's KEYtaab chapter at Bengaluru ran for a period of around six months at a home named 'Abhilashrayam'.

Here, around 25 girls between the ages of 10-15 years were taught by nearly 10 volunteers who were all locals from Bengaluru proper. A similar pattern of non-academic, extracurricular activities was followed.

Events

As per the principles of SMSD, our two projects KEYtaab and AnganShiksha look after the needs of our kids at Shelter Homes and in slums. That leaves us ample space for focusing our attention on giving our support to other events of social significance. Be it our women empowerment projects such as Ibtida, Being Women (8th March); our social upliftment endeavours in the form of our Crowdfunding events like the Charity Bake Sale or Gift a Child Christmas; our employee engagement collaborations with corporate spaces such as WeWork, 91Springboard that push for corporate charity - all such yearly events encourage individual, community and social growth. Affirming to our core values that object all forms of stereotyping and minority exclusion, Muskurahat's events reflect its ideological aims.

India's Future Tycoons is a project especially close to our Founder- President Himanshu Goenka for it not only enables him to display his event management skills but also aims to solve problems he himself had once faced. IFT is our annual collaboration with ENpower- 'The 'B' School for Teens'.

Over 250 schools were approached by us with nearly 3000 students (between 13-17 years) coming up with 1850 business ideas from across 11 cities. The top 100 Teams were put under a rigorous Boot Camp spread over 2 days where their ideas received a professional polish. These they have to pitch in a three-minute video; the best 24 of which got a mention on the 'Ideas Wall' at the Grand Finale. Thus, IFT is yearly a mega event with scope for great social developmental interaction, like a youth business fest.

Today, the average (emerging) entrepreneur is not above 18 years of age. However, how many 'schools' actually provide him with the competitive environment and global outlook that are essentially the ingredients in preparing for the future? India's Future Tycoons aims to do just that. From the seed stage till it germinates into a fully packaged pitch, IFT is there to make young and smart dreams come alive.

IFT 2018 was modelled along the UN's Sustainable Development with its four main themes of #1 Education, #2 Poverty, #3 Eat Healthy & Stay Fit, #4 Water Supply & Sanitation. Alongside these there was also the Guest Panel where one of the Youth Entrepreneur -Speakers was Himanshu Goenka. Under his leadership, execution of events is Muskurahat's forte and so we were able to partner successfully with ENpower whose brain child this is.

Over 250 schools were approached by us with nearly 3000 students coming up with 1850 business ideas from across 11 cities

Ibtida

Ibtida is Muskurahat's special women empowerment project that focuses on collecting funds for financially disadvantaged women who struggle day in and out to make two ends meet. This year's edition also included reaching out to various all-women self help groups where we could find such working women and inculcate in them special skill sets. We were able to target an audience of women who are engaged in local handicraft ware but lacked business-like professionalism.

Dhruv Goenka with a set of talented volunteers taught them the art of designing diyas and of paper quilling which two things could be utilized by them to bag local business deals during festival times. This promoted not only great entrepreneurial skills in them but also enabled fuller female personalities to emerge. As for our collaboration with 91 Springboards across Mumbai, the funds we collected were handed over to these ladies in need. All of them have become very special to us because of the souvenirs they gifted everybody at 91Springboard. This event has truly added a new dimension of possibility to our women-centric motives at Muskurahat.

25 women made products
worth Rs. 1 lakh.

Art Empower

On the event of International Women's Day and as part of our 'Being Women' initiative, this year Muskurahat decided to become the 'Voice of the Women'. Thus, we launched the 'Graffiti Pop Art Project' on the eve of Women's Day 2019. Starting sharp at 12 am on March,7th and continuing till 6 am of the next day, the mission was to paint 6 panels of the Foot Over Bridge at Andheri's South side. This was done in collaboration with graffiti artists alchemy.india, i_m_carter and Smash along with Rupesh Kumar.

The strong message of Women's Empowerment through their bold smashing of stereotypes, slogans promoting social harmony and celebration of gender inclusivity were some issues we aimed to address.

Freedom for one, Freedom for all.

The next event for Being Women was celebrated throughout 8th March. This was a street play aptly titled 'Azadi' performed on the Bandra, Andheri and Borivali stations in collaboration with Two and a Half Theatre Co. The play put forth the powerful message of how progress made by some women globally has only been possible because of the azadi they fought for and won.

A similar revolution should take place in every part of the world where women are still not azad, starting from our homes, classrooms, workplace and the country.

Other Events

Kamani Food Employee Engagement

This was an Employee Engagement program undertaken with Kamani Foods and Connect For. This was in essence a painting workshop cum project carried out at one of our KEYtaab shelter homes. Instead of just restricting ourselves to paintings, our collaborators splashed on the idea of creating some graffiti designs on the walls of their Home. This act of creativity was managed by the expert artists we got on board. However, the next day our corporate partners- all employees at Kamani Foods and Connect For who hadn't touched paint bottles since their schooldays, came over and painted the town red, as it were. Their unrestricted interaction with the kids proved as much of a stress buster for them as it did a joy for the children at Snehsadan.

Global Youth Conference

The concept of Global Youth Conference came into existence to fill the gaps that today prevents the youth of our nation from turning into the Global Leaders of tomorrow. The main goal of this collaboration was to nurture the skills of personality leadership, developing communication styles, polishing presentation skills and spreading youth empowerment - the final qualities that we strive to cultivate within not only our children but also our volunteers.

91 SPRINGBOARD

We at Muskurahat are the first ones up and jumping when it comes to putting on our 'giving gloves' and in contributing to as large a donation drive as we can. Over that prescribed week- during a span of 7 days, Muskurahat organized a total of 35 events and managed to collect a staggering amount of 1.2 lakhs from our 2000 contributors spread across 5 locations. Our collaboration with 91 Springboard hubs all over Mumbai added a golden touch of achievement to Daan Utsav 2018.

Daan Utsav 2018 at Muskurahat crossed new levels of achievement and the generous giving of our donors encouraged all of us to climb even bigger mountains and produce even more joy.

Other Crowdfunding Events

Christmas with WeWork

Christmas With WeWork was our unique crowdfunding collaborative with the well known corporate working space of WeWork. At its centre was our campaign of Gift a Child Christmas Today organized with WeWork with the main motive of raising enough funds for our kids to buy them Christmas gifts. Three fun activities conducted over 3 days of fundraising with the first two being our Charity Bake Sale and the Blind Book Date organized with WeWork; the third but not the least of them was 'Fulfil a Wish'. This was their chance to help our kids get their Christmas gifts by donating to Muskurahat or by gifting them something by themselves.

Charity Bake Sale

Another major crowdfunding event at Muskurahat is our Charity Bake Sale that initially began as part of Daan Utsav, but which has since evolved into an autonomous event with its own joys and challenges. The simple idea is to make as huge a sale of our delicious CUPCAKES & COOKIES (which were made by home bakers) as we can to raise the largest possible amount for the pure purpose of donating it to our kids' welfare. By setting up stalls around across college campuses and in co-working spaces as well as year-round social events, all our Charity Bake Sales have been major successes.

Muskurahat United

Without that 'Well done, dude!' even the best of us turn bitter. Thank you speeches must not be restricted those in the bathroom given to shampoo bottles; and for this reason Muskurahat honours it's volunteers' dedication at the Annual Awards' Ceremony.

This year brought bigger projects and larger collaborations for Muskurahat and hence, the celebrations too called for something special.

The Wall of Fame honouring all our volunteers was certainly the centre of all attraction, as it was beautifully surrounded with custom- made Yellow Buntings. The program kicked off with an introductory speech by our President- Founder Himanshu Goenka followed by an open interaction between him and the volunteers.

His mother, Mrs. Goenka presided as the Chief Guest and who addressed us in a moving speech before proceeding to distribute the Awards. These were given to the Top 25 Performers for the year 2017. This was followed by Art Activity where each had to express what Muskurahat meant to them using their wildest creative energies.

A group hug of the Project Managers and the Core Team followed with the entire room joining them for a group selfie. Next up was the big surprise that the Core had planned for all of them. This was an Unplugged Night of rocking music and some crazy dance vibes.

Surely, after all the fun and the planned efforts that made it possible, the Annual Volunteer Awards set the stage really high for the coming year!

Future Projects

ENlabs

ENlabs will be the groundbreaking endeavour undertaken by ENpower whose main aim is to nurture the school going youth (especially from the age range of 13-17years) and who miss out on the opportunities that would enable them to grow the entrepreneur budding in them. Through the medium of lively and interactive learning centred around games, this project will hope to reach out to our school going kids and perform these activities once a week within that familiar environment. The design for ENlabs has provided for a facilitator to keep track of their weekly progress.

Holistic learning in BMC schools

Clear as it is from its name, this project will hope to socially, culturally and intellectually nourish kids from across BMC schools in Mumbai. The main concern behind this project is to expose kids to extra-academic and extracurricular learning that can naturally cannot take place within an institutional school environment. Guided by a curriculum set by our expert mentors, this project will aim at moulding a wholesome youth ready to be tomorrow's leaders.

Swajeevi

The motto of Swajeevi will be to transform the youth of rural India from 'job seekers' into 'job creators'. Standing for Swapna + Jidd + Vishwas (Dream + Drive + Belief).

It starts from identification of their strength and interests through to driving their dreams to making self independent and fully capable for their challenges. Swajeevi will be Muskurahat's attempt in collaboration with ENpower to reach our rural brothers and sisters.

AnganShiksha Ragpickers

As the name AnganShiksha suggests, this will be a community development project aiming at the class of society that most often gets neglected i.e. Mumbai's ragpicking community. The idea is to provide their kids with a basic education model in order to open up opportunity that they too should avail of, regardless of their personal social-economic background. The guiding light of this endeavour will be to create a positive atmosphere of sustainable development for the benefit of the overall community, envisioning a community of rag pickers that is self reliant, self confident and has acquired basic problem solving skills.

Founders & Mentors

Himanshu Goenka, Founder

A perfect mix of Captain Cool and Hot Brains, he likes to keep ahead of the times and is always there before the others. Redefining the idea of change and creativity, he has promised himself to inspire those driven like him. Always in search of the next NEW, he has only one thing to speak about himself: (He is only being modest). "I can't see ANYONE sad. If they are not crying, I want to know why aren't they laughing?" And then you hear: "Muskurahat Foundation launches their new project!". But how did it happen!? Simply because he never tires of giving, and those who take from him, never tire of blessing him along the hard way.

Ayush Khandelwal, Co-Founder

An electronics wala engineer, he still has that start up idea safely kept for the future. For now he is our Chief Smiles Officer. 5 years pehle he called himself an introvert..."Now, I can legit talk to anybody in the world!" He is the 'bad princy' who has terrorized our kids: "Aap mat ana agli baar." But for us who work with him, he is mostly the good guy, the go-to person when things are bad. He makes any newbie intern feel at home. Always On The Ground, Just The Man for Muskurahat!

They say that to donate means to ask for blessings in return. However, the act of donation is more than a give and take. It is the generosity that exists between two or more human beings. Our donors at Muskurahat inspire us daily by their graceful acts of selfless giving, filling us with gratitude for their kindness.

Friends of Muskurahat

The gratitude that these - our corporate partners have inspired in us is overwhelming, hardly expressible in words. However, this page is our humble attempt at honouring their generous support for Muskurahat.

Team Muskurahat

This group of people in front of you aren't staring at the camera lens, instead they are daring you to change your thinking and inviting you to take up their mission. These eyes burn with the fire that volunteering at Muskurahat has kindled in them. Along with it of course, comes the fun and friendship that the sweetness in this photo depicts. After all, learning for oneself and helping others both go hand in hand at Muskurahat. And once you pledge yourself to the service of spreading smiles- then no amount of challenges can deter you from being so happy during such moments of ultimate victories.
